Unit 5: E-Publishing: Product Page

Exercise 1: Discussion

Topic: What are the criteria of a good product page? 1

Answer:

A good product page is crucial for e-commerce. Based on the module's context, the criteria for a good product page include:

- High-Quality Visuals: Clear, high-resolution images and videos that show the product from multiple angles and in use.
- Clear and Engaging Descriptions: The description should be easy to understand, highlight the product's benefits (not just features), and be persuasive.
- Customer Reviews/Social Proof: Positive reviews from other buyers build trust and encourage new customers to make a purchase.
- Clear Pricing and Shipping Information: Customers need to see the full cost, including shipping fees and estimated delivery times, to feel confident.
- Strong Call to Action (CTA): A clear and visible button, like "Buy Now" or "Add to Cart," guides the customer to the next step.
- Security and Trust: The page should make the customer feel that their transaction will be secure.

Exercise 3: Conclusion

Task: Conclude what makes a product page effective. 13

Answer:

Based on the text "Creating an Effective Product Page," an effective product page successfully converts a visitor into a buyer. This is achieved by combining several key elements:

1. Clear Descriptions: Using simple language to explain benefits, not just features, to avoid confusion. 14
2. High-Quality Images: Helping shoppers visualize the product, including showing it in use. 15

3. Customer Reviews: Building trust by showing the opinions of other buyers.

16

4. Transparency: Clearly stating the price and shipping details. 17

5. Clear Guidance: Using a strong "call to action" (like "Buy Now") to motivate the customer to complete the purchase. 18

(Note: The second part of this exercise, analyzing a website in pairs, is a group activity and has been skipped as requested.)
